DANIELS MAKES AN ADDRESS

Large Gathering Hears Secretary at Clarendon Yesterday

URGES CHURCH WORK

Makes No Reference, Even Remotely, to Subject of "Preparedness" by United States.

Reading and discussion of important reports covering Church activities and progress during the last year, the adoption of resolutions in the death of Booker T. Washington, paying splendid tribute to the great negro educator; discussion of the wonderful town of Hopewell and the opportunity presented to the Church there, and the raising of almost $1,000 by collection to clear the debt on the Clarendon Church, were the outstanding features of the closing session of the Baptist General Association of Virginia, at Clarendon, Alexandria county, last week.

The following officers were elected:

President Westwood Hutchinson, a distinguished layman and banker of Manassas.

First Vice-President—W. S. Jenkins

Second Vice-President — Lloyd T. Wilson.

Third Vice-President—R. S. Barbour.

Fourth Vice-President—N. H. Williams.

Secretary—Hugh C. Smith.

Assistant Secretary—H. T. Ellyson

Treasurer—B. A. Jacobs.

Auditor—E. M. Long.

J. Taylor Ellyson, read an encouraging report of $5,310 received and spent for the partial support of 7 young men in preparatory and collegiate schools.

The Baptist have in their theological seminaries 1,476 students, and in colleges and secondary schools 3,58 other young men preparing to enter the seminaries.

Report of Treasurer B. A. Jacobs for the year ending November 1, 191

Balance on hand last report, $3,066.08; State missions, $47,000,68; Sunday school, $6,379.81; education board $5,210.35; foreign mission, $87,972.79; home missions, $45,812.95; ministers' relief, $5,970,90; orphanage, $34,996.08; educational commission, $1,159.50; Judson fund, $16,000; Grand total, $253,771.14.

No session of the association was held yesterday fore noon. Dr. Edwin S. Blackwell, of Norfolk, preached at 11 o'clock, in the Baptist Church where the association is meeting. About 100 of the visiting ministers filled pulpits of the various denominations in Washington, Baltimore, Alexandria and Northern Virginia.

Judge Nicol, of Alexandria; G. R. Rucker, of Clarendon ,and Dr. J. W. Cammack, of Richfond, at the request of the association ,secured an automobile and went to Washington at 2 o'clock to escort Secretary Josephus Daniels, of the Navy, to the church, where he was to address the association at 3 o'clock. Secretary Daniels was accompanied by his wife. He was introduced by Dr. H. W. Battle, of Charlottesville, who had known Mr. Daniels intimately fortwenty years. Standing room was at a premium in the church, while the address was delivered. Contrary to the expectations of some, the Secretary of the Navy did not refer even remotely to the subject of "preparedness." His appeal was to men to interest themselves, for their own sake, and the sake of the cause, in the work of the church.

Secretary Daniels said that he found great pleasure in greeting the representatives of the 170,000 Baptists of Virginia, He had lived in the midst of the militant hosts of North Carolina Baptists, who number 250,000. He humorously remarked that he understood that the Macedonian cry often went up in Virginia to the North Carolina preachers, "Come over and help us." This had gone on to such an extent that perhaps a third of the Baptist preachers in the State had come across the line from North Carolina. It was also prove nthat half the college presidents in Virginia Carolina. It was also proven that half college presidents in North Carolina were Virginians.

Touching reference was fade to the name of Dr. Charles T. Taylor, of a well-known Virginia family, who had shaped the ideals of Wake Forest College, Virginia and North Carolina said the secretary, have the same ideals and the same high purposes He referred to the remarkable fact that five Presidents had chosen North Carolinians to be members of their Cabinet, and that in each case the member from North Carolina was made Secretary of the Navy.

In speaking of the contribution of Baptists to the States and the nation the secretary said: "Only two States failed to ratify in short order the draft of the Constitution submitted by the Constitutional Convention. These were North Carolina and Rhode Island. These States did not ratify the Constitution because it did not contain the bill of rights, religious liberty and freedom of the press. The movement was led by the Baptist of Rode Island, and the Baptists and Quakers of North Carolina."

Secretary Daniels commended the stand taken by Roger Williams in refusing to accept from Parliament the right to practice freedom in religion, denying that any government had the power to give religious libery or to take it away.

The secretary, though not a Baptist, is familiar with the principles for which they have stood, in refusing to seek patronage from the State or to consent to public funds going into the treasury of any church. He referred to the occasion when Patriek Henry, in defending his client, who was a Baptist, preacher, said to the judge: "Your Honor, I stand here to defend this man, who is charged with the heinous crime of preaching the Gospel."

He told an incident, illustrating the changes in religious conditions, of a Baptist preacher who came from North Carolina some years ago to visit his brother who, at that time, was representing North Carolina in the United States Senate. On his return to his home church the preacher said: "I fear that conditions in Washington are far from what they should be. While there, I was invited to preach in a prominent church, and before I had preached two hours and a half, I observed that not a few of the people had left the house. I am convinced that in Washington they are not able to stand sound doctrine."

Secretary Daniels said further: "In this day many people have come to say that the church is no affair of theirs. In not a few communities. there are respectable people who appear to have no need for the church, except when they get married or die. On these occasions they want the blessings of the Almighty. They are religious liberals. There are very few now who deny the truths of the religion of Christ. Atheists are very rare. The outstanding sin is the sin of neglect. They neglect the church. They are indifferent. The problem of the church is not only to reach the submerged tenth, but the educated man who feels no need of the church. There is now no fear of persecution in religion in this country, but there is an indifference which is more fatal and deadening than persecution. In Europe in many places they have stopped writing history with ink and are writing it with blood. The answer to the charge that Christianity is failing in Europe is that it has not been tried. So-called Christians have neglected their religion. They have not lived up to their ideal, which have been preached. Recently at a meeting of the Cabinet, when a matter of the gravest importance was being discussed, and when no light had broken through, the President of the United States arose and said, 'I hope all who believe in prayer will seek Divine guidance in this matter.'

"That sentiment expressed by our President is the sentiment of America in our difficult problems of state today."

After the Secretary of the Navy had completed his address and had shaken hands with the hundreds of people who came forward to greet him. a meeting was held by the 140 State mission pastors, and the five State evangelists. The meeting was presided over by William Ellyson, secretary of State missions.

Rev. Mr. Council, is spending the closing days of his long and useful life at the palatial home of his son. in-law, Mr. Rucker, at Clarendon. Many of the delegates who know and love him have enjoyed seeing him during the sessions of the Baptist General Association.

EMPLOYMENT OF INCENDIARIES

Alleged Arson Conspiracy to be Aired in a St. Louis Court

NINE CAUGHT IN NET

Conflagrations Said to Have Netted Conspirators $2,500,000 in Insurance Money.

St. Louis, Nov. 22—An unusual trial ebgan here today as the culmination of charges that there has existed in this city a widespread arson conspiracy.

A long list of fires, which have occurred in St. Louis, with evidences of incendiary origin, is estimated to have netted the conspirators in the alleged arson cases a profit of some $2,500,000 in the last few years. In view of this prevalence of incendiarism, the police had long been on their guard, but it was not until September 11 last that they confirmed their suspicions by the alleged confession of Herbert O. Baker, a fire insurance agent.

Baker was arrested on the night of of September 11 a few hours after four men, afterward referred to a "torches", were taken as they were unloading four barrels of gasoline at the plant of the Christen Bellow Manufacturing Company.

The arrest of these four men was due to the fact that the head of the firm had revealed details of a plot to have his own factory fired—a plot which he told the police had been proposed to him by an insurance man and which he pretended to enter into in order to assist the police in the detection of the guilty.

After Baker had made a statement to the police, it was announced at detective headquarters that Baker had revealed, not the existence of an "arson trust," but that several groups of men, working on similar lines had conspired with heads of that the firms to set property on fire that the firms might collect excessive insurance. An insurance agent always was in these plots, according to the story, and he was to reap his profit by getting commissions on the excess insurance written before the fire.

The grand jury began an inquiry into the arson conspiracy on September 16, and returned final indictments on October 1. The following were indicted:

Roy M. B. Tidd, Mayor of Webster Groves, Mo., a fashionable suburb of St. Louis, president of the Nixon-Jones Printing Company, whose five-story plant was burned on the night of September 4. Barrels and boxes of gasoline were found in the basement of the printing plant after the fire, the police said. Before his indictment Tidd had brought a $10,000 damage suit against Assistant Fire Chief Rucker because after the fire Rucker would not give him free access to the burned printing house.

Julius R. Bersch, vice-president of the Bersch Insurance Agency Company. Bersch was named in the same indictment as Tidd in connection with the Nixon-Jones fire. The indictment was based on testimony that Bersch in trying to arrange a plot to fire the Christen Bellows Company plant had referred to the Nixon-Jones fire and had said that Tidd " would get the insurance." Bersch also was indicted for alleged participation in the fire that destroyed the Gilmore-Bonfig Decorating Company establishment on July 24, and for the projected burning of the Christen Bellows factory.

Harry G. Gilmore, head of the Gilmore-Bonfig Decorating Company, for alleged complicity in burning of the establishment of that concern.

Harry Imel, secretary to Gilmore indicted in connection with the Gilmore-Bonfig fire.

Edward Milner, alleged "torch," accused in connection with the Gilmore Bondfig fire; also in connection with the alleged attempt to fire the Christen Bellows plant.

Otto F. Leman, insurance adjuster indicted in connection with the alleged plot to set fire to the Christen Bellows plant.

Morris Greenberg, Max Greenberg and Michael O'Connor, alleged "torches," indicted in connection with the plot to fire the Christen Bellows establishment.

No indictments was returned against Herbert O. Baker, the agent, whose arrest opened the way for the exhaustive grand jury inquiry. Baker was a principal witness before the grand jury.

Rev. Mr. Council, has been in the active ministry in Virginia for over sixty years. He was at various times associated in the work of the General Association with such great Baptist leaders as Drs. Jeter, Dickerson, Hawthorne, Hatcher and others. One of the remarkable things about the wor kof this man was the fact that he achieved his greatest successes, both in saving souls and church-building, after he was seventy years of age.

GERMANS EAGER FOR PEACE

London Editor Says Tide Will Turn in a Few Months

London, Nov. 22—J. L. Garvin, editor of the Pall-Mall Gazette and London Observer, during a lecture yesterday, said:

"If public confidence remains stanch here I will have no more fear of a German conquest of Europe than I would have of a German conquest of Mars. I am far more afraid of the Germans' real weakness than I am of the German' apparent strength.

"I fear the peace proposals that will soon be forthcoming. The Germans know well that in three months or six months the tide must turn. It is certain that they will want to take advantage of a time when they are at the top of the tide.

"You must be prepared for proposals for a false settlement and a treacherous peace."

CASE OF W. J. BRYAN

(Norfolk Virginian-Pilot)

Mr. Bryan used to rail at the aries and practices which subordinated "the man to the dollar,." In recent years he seems to be putting acquisition of the dollar before all other considerations. He has grown rich and is growing richer by charging a price for preachments which he claims to be inspired by religious and moral motives. Maybe he is not conscious that so he is attempting that simuttaneous service to God, and Mammon which a very high authority has declared to be beyond the ability of any man.

Mr. Bryan contends that this country can most surely disarm enmity and avert insult and injury from without by disarming itself and letting it be known of all men that we will neither resent the one nor resist the other. The logical outcome of his teachings would be to disband the army and dismantle the navy. Yet if Mr. Bryan's extensive property interest lay on the Mexican border, there is no American citizen who would be more prompt and vociferous in calling on the government for troops to protect his flocks and herdsmen from spoliation and murder by invading bandits. Peace and safety can not be purchased by submission to or compromise with wrong. The same sound reason which justifies the maintenance of an armed police to preserve domestic order and repress domestic crime dictates the recognition of force as an essential element of insurance against trespassers from without. There is continued inconsistence that Mr. Bryan is sincere in the views he is industriously peddling through the land to the visible swelling of his bank account, but we haven't heard yet that he is advocating a law prohibiting bank-watchmen from having guns to use against burglarious intruders.

VIRGINIA BACKS THE PRESIDENT

Two Senators and Nine Representatives for Preparedness

SWANSON WILL LEAD

Martin Will Support Wilson With All His Power—Hay Also to Work For Defense.

Washington, Nov. 22—Virginia's two Senators and eight, probably nine, of her 10 Representatives will support President Wilson's "better preparedness" program in Congress. Representative E. W. Saunders, of Rocky Mount, is the only avowed opponent of the national defense movement. Representative William A. Jones, of the First district is in favor of a "reasonable amount of preparedness," especially a liberal coast defense appropriation, but he has not definitely decided he will go as far as the President desires in the new navy and army plans.

Senator Martin, in a statement, said he would back up the President with all his power. Senator Swanson, the ranking member on the Senate Naval Affairs Committee, will not only support the "national defense" movement, but will be the Senate floor leader for the Administration when the larger navy bill is taken up in the Senate. Both of the Virginia Senators have for years been strong advocates of a larger navy and Senator Swanson endeavored to make the senate hold our for two battleships in 1912, when the House allowed only one in the Naval Appropriations bill.

On the House side Representative Hay, chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, will introduce the Garrison new army plan and take care of it on the floor. He will be supported by Representatives Flood, Carlin, Glass, Holland, Montague, and Watson. Representative Slemp, the only Republican from Virginio, announced that he was in favor of a stronger navy and army and would support the Administration in its movement to strengthen the army and the navy. Representative Saunders, therefore will be the only Virginian who will be "off the reservation" when the vote is taken.

Representative Jones, in outlining his views, said he believed the coast defenses should be strengthened and the forts manned with large guns He declared he was strongly in favor of that part of the President's program. He added that he was in doubt as to other features, but believed something should be done to increase the naval and military strength of the nation in order that it might be prepared for defense in the event of an attack.

"I do not believe the world will see another great war for at least 40 years," said Mr. Jones, "The nations of Europe now engaged in war will be bankrupt in men and resources. They will not be able to finance a war against a country as resourceful as the United States for years to come. Holding this belief, I cannot help but believe that it may be wise for this country to delay any plans for large increase in the army and navy at present until at least the present war in Europe is over.

"However, I am in favor of strengthening the coast defenses. I also believe that last great battle in the present war will be a clash between the English and German fleets. The Powers will not let the war close without such a battle in order to determine the value of navies as they are constructed today. It may be well for this country to defer action on a large naval program until the full lessons of the present war are at hand. I have not yet decided I shall not support the President's program. My attitude will be determined when the bills are before Congress."

Senator Martin is strongly in favor of a liberal Federal appropriation for the State militia. He will support such leislation in the Senate.

ROAD TO BE IMPROVED

Little River Turnpike, Between Alexandria and Fairfax C. H., to Receive Attention

The Little River turnpike between Alexandria City and Fairfax Courthouse, one of the oldest roads in this section of the country, and an important portion of the highway to the Piedmont section of Virginia, is to be improved by the supervisors of Fairfax county, and placed on a par with the other modern thoroughfares of Fairfax county. Alexandria merchants are gratified at the announcement, as a large wagon traffic from Fairfax and Loudoun counties which formerly came to Alexandria over this road is now diverted to Washington on account of improved roads leading to the capital.

The resolution adopted by the board for the improvement of this road provides for the application of state funds as well as county funds, the latter to equal the amount contributed by the state.

SUICIDE GRIEVED FOR WIFE..

Cuts Throat With Razor, a Few Months After Her Death.

Philadelphia, Nov. 21.—Grief over the death of his wife which occurred a few months ago, led to the suicide yesterday of George Stedman, 52 years old, of No. 2?1 South Twenty-fourth street. He was found in his bed with his throat cut yesterday afternoon by T. J. Welsh, who also lives at the Twenty-fourth street address. At the Medico-Chirurgical Hospital it was said that the man had been dead several hours.

Stedman, who was a jewelry worker, is declared to have been despondent ever since his wife died. When he failed to appear for meals at the house yesterday Welsh decided to investigate. His knock at the door of the man's room was unanswered and he pushed the door open. Stedman was lying across the bed. A razor was lying near his body.

CORNERSTONE LAYING

Bishop O'Connell Conducts Ceremonies in Presence of Large Concourse

In the presence of a large assemblage, which included prominent clergymen from Washington, Richmond, Baltimore, and Philadelphia, the Rt. Rev. D. J. O'Connell, bishop of the diocese of Richmond, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon laid the cornerstone of St. Joseph's Catholic Church and school for colored persons ,at the corner of Columbus and Wythe streets.

Bishop O'Connell, who was the orator, of the occasion, declared: "This church is only a part of a greater church, which is spreading its doctrine to all nations, all races and all colors." He said, that the church goes back to the beginning of Christianity, with Christ as its corner stone. Beyond doing duty to God it teaches duty to country and flag, he asserted.

Bishop O'Connell declared that the erection of the church was made possible by the beneficence of a Catholic woman, of Philadelphia, who is giving her fortune for the betterment of the colored race.

The efforts of the late Rev. H. J. Cutler, pastor of St. Mary's Church, to arrange for the purchase of the church site were recounted by Bishop O'Connell.

Right Rev. Currier, formerly bishop of Mantanzas, made a short address in which he said, that for the last 300 years the most powerful forces on the face of the earth have made ineffectual efforts to annihilate the church. Despite even the efforts today, he declared the church flourishes everywhere on the face of the globe.

Rev. Joseph Kelly, S. J., pastor of the new church, made an address in which he thanked all who had given him assistance.

The corner stone was laid by Bishop O'Connell. Rev. Louis Smet, pastor of Ct. Mary's Church, and Rev. C. W. Hannigan, of Richmond, were deacons of honor. Selections were given by a choir, Benediction by the bishop ended the services.

A parade, headed by the Holy Name Band, preceded the corner stone laying in which a large gathering of members of St. Augustine's Church, Washington, participated, together with a number of men of St. Mary's parish. Thomas Blair, was chief marshal

The new edifice will cost about $12,000. It is a combination church and school, and is being built by Samuel De Vaughan.

The stand and fixtures surrounding the church was decorated with American flags, and the church colors. A large American flag occupied the central position.

Rev. Joseph Kelly, the pastor, is a members of the Society of St. Joseph. He has been in Alexandria for some time arranging the details incident to his new work. He came to Alexandria from Baltimore.

UNEASINESS IN SPAIN

In these days of war and rumors of wars, there is anxiety in Spain, which country is endeavoring to maintain her neutrality.

German machinations in Madrid. Seville, Barcelona, and inevery town and most villages in Spain from the beginning of the war, have proceeded with a very minimum of interruption, and the daring of the German agents at times has been almost beyond belief. The conversion of a part of the German ambassadorial premises in Madrid into a kind of public inquiry office where anybody might call and have the staff of the embassy at his disposal in order to have it proved to him that Germans are all saints and the rest of the world, Spain, Austria, and Turkey excepted, mostly sinners, is regarded by strictly neutral and properly intelligent Spaniards as a gross abuse of the ambassadorial functions against which the government should have taken action.

While these nefarious enterprises are carried on by the contending powers in a neutral country the grand alliance has done nothing of the kind, but has been perfectly quiet and fair, and has indeed, in the opinion of reasonable Spaniards done infinitely less than it should have done.

At the beginning of the war it was declared in many quarters that an arrangement had been made between Spain and Gerfany, that the former should intervene on behalf of Germany at an opportune moment, or when the assistance of the Spaniards should become necessary. That report, inspired of course by Germany, was without any doubt, utterly false. It is being said that Germany is exercising the ingenious methods of her diplomacy at the present time with a view of gaining the active support of Spain in the war, offering her, as her reward for intervention, Gibraltar and Morocco, with the qualification only that that part of Morocco shall be ceded to Germany upon which she had designs at the time of the Agadir affair. It is considered likely that German diplomacy has exercised such efforts as these, but very unlikely that the Spanish government should have given the smallest heed to them. At the same time they cause uneasiness in some quarters. The fact that Germany has now taken southeast Europe into the war and apparently desires to get as much of the world as possible into it, has increased the anxiety of Spain. Ministers and others declare almost daily that Spain will remain neutral to the end, and that nothing shall move her from this attitude. That undoubtedly is their hope, but their fears that it may not be consummated increase.

THE WORK OF THE MINISTRY.

Bishop Candler, in words that all may understand, gave expression to a fundamental truth when, in discussing the lack of men for the ministry, he said: "It has been said that the reason that ministers are scarce is due largely to the fact that the salaries do not keep pace with those of other professions. No man who considers salary when he is contemplating going into the ministry is fit preach ,and those who are holding back on this account should continue to do so."

The Richmond Virginian in this connection says:

The work of the ministry has to do with the very foundation principles of human existence. The faithful preacher ministers both to the spiritual and physical needs of his people. He must be prepared to rejoice with those who are glad and weep with those who sorrow. He must hold himself ever ready for service to all those who need his ministrations. We know of no sum of money which represents the actual value of the true minister's service to his people. But man is so constituted that if he has the glimmering of an idea that the preacher is in the work of the ministry "for what he can get out of it" the minister's usefulness is ended.

We believe that few men are at the sacred desk for the pay. A consuming passion for souls rather than a hunger for great salaries, we believe, animates the lives of our ministry. But this in no wise should relieve the churches of their very plain duty to make substantial provision for their ministry.

Preachers must be clothed—in fact no church wants its minister to appear in shabby attire. Preachers must provide for their families; their growing boys and girls have just as big appetites as the children of the laymen, and they deserve to be as well kept, as well-clad, as well housed and as well educated as those of the layman. In order that these necessities shall be provided, adequate salaries should be paid, and paid promptly when due.

The great Head of the Church, who suffered all the buffetse of provation on earth, who even had to work a miracle to get money to pay his taxes, has said that "the laborer is worthy of his hire." Our churches cannot afford to be niggardly with their ministers, and no church which is spiritually alive will find it difficult to raise any reasonable amount.

God's work calls for too high an ideal of service to be hitched to the dollar-mark, but God's workmen should be freed from the embarrassment of an empty purse. What reminds us of the sainted Leroy M. Lee, of ever-blessed memory, who used to say that he could preach better with a dollar in his pocket—and sometimes borrowed the dollar for the purpose.

THE DOCTOR'S DIAGNOSIS.

A physician recently received a letter from one of the large mail order houses in which the mail order letter writer had advised the doctor that they had been looking for his name on their list but did not find that he had ever bought any merchandise from them and they wanted to know the reason why he was not one their customers.

This is the letter in reply:

"Your letter of recent date is at hand. I do not trade with you, never have, and you ask me to tell you frankly why. I will give you a few of the large number of reasons.

First—I am in business in my community and am looking to the varied industries of my community for my support. I cannot ask the people of this town for their support if I do not give them mine.

Second—In looking over my books I fail to find either Mr.———, Mr.——— or other of the company's names which reminds me that neither of these gentlemen have ever given me a penny's patronage. Why is this? Am I too far away, or have neither of them needed a physician or are they afraid of the mail order plant when it comes to the practice of medicine? I can certainly give as good satisfaction by mail as your house can and appreciate a call from either one of them when in need of medical service.

Third—In looking over the subscription lists for improving our streets and public highways, I have failed to find the name of either member of your firm down for one penny to assist in the work. Also I have failed to find your name on any of the charity lists where help has been rendered to our poor. In other words, you are not down as contributor to our Helping Hand Society. In fact, all of the movements for the betterment of our conditions, where our community has needed the united efforts of her public-spirited citizens, I have failed to find your name among the list of our contributing merchants. Your name is not on our city tax books, nor do I find where you have paid a city license to do a mercantile business in competition with our home merchants.

There are a few answers to your questions, and I trust will see the justice of them."

Confined twelve years to her father's home, at Easton, Md., most of that time to a single room, her physician says, Miss Grace Marshall, aged 28, has lost entirely the power of speech, or to think or to walk. Miss Marshall's stepmother told agents of the Children's Aid Society, who rescued her, that the girl was hysterical, and was locked up to prevent her hurting any one. The father says the girl was insane, and he locked her up because he could not afford to put her in an institution, as he declares he was advised to do by physicians.

A physician who examined him stated that Orndorff has a good and healthy heart, and that there was nothing wrong with him, physicially. A large barrel was accordingly rolled out, Orndorff's hands were tied, and after he had been stripped to the waist and laid over the barrel he was officially lashed by one of the officers appointed for that purpose. The man is at work again.

THREATS MADE AT FUNERAL

I. W. W. Orators Hint at Retaliation For Hillstrom's Execution.

Salt Lake City, Nov. 21—Six Swedish girls, including one said to have been Joseph Hillstrom's sweetheart, acted as pallbearers at his funeral service here yesterday, Each girl wore a red ash, which was attached to the casket, when the body was taken to the depot and sent to W. D. Haywood, at Chicago, There was no prayer and no religious ceremony.

The execution was strongly condemned by members of the Industrial Workers of the World who spoke. One speaker declared the authorities of the State "would soon have cause to remember the day they took Hillstrom, out and shot him."

Industrial Workers of the World songs, some of them by Hillstrom, were sung as the procession passed through the streets.

PRESSURE ON GREECE

Balkan Policy of Country is Doubtful as Ever.

Paris, Nov. 22—The outcome of the struggle between the entente and Germanic powers to control Grooce's Balkan policy is as doubtful as ever today.

Just how far the allies have gone or will go with their Greek "commercial economic blockade" has not been made public officially. Unofficial news that allied warships are searching Greek merchantmen in the Mediterranean is an unexpected development. It is taken as meaning that a literal blockade has been established.

Bronchitis

When a severe cold settles on the lungs it is called bronchitis. There is danger of its leading to broncho pneumonia, and for this reason it is always best to go to bed and take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as directed until well along toward recovery. Mrs. Charles E. Woodard, Sandy Creek, N. Y. writes: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured me of bronchitis last fall. When I began using it I was so hoarse at times that it was difficult for me to speak above a whisper. I resorted to the use of this valuable medicine and found it very soothing and healing.
